The racing was set down for one o'clock, but as early as ten o'clock about five hundred persons had taken posabout ave numered persons and taken pos-session of the track and indulged in ath-letic amusements till the arrival of the horses and their riders, and even then they reluctantly abandoned their sports. The judges were Patrick Anglascy, Lewis E. Wood and J. AUGUSTA JOCKEY CLUB BACES.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Nov. 25, 1875. This was the third day of the Augusta Jockey Club gaces. The first race, mile heats, was won by Springlett, Katle Lee second and Charlie Cheatham third. Time, 1:48%. The second race, two-mile dash, was won by Tom O'Neil, Busy Bee second and Vanderbilt third. Time, 3:49%. The attendance was fair, although the weather was unfavorable. The races continue Friday and Saturday.

CONTEST FOR THE LONG ISLAND GUN CLUB CUP.

The members of the Long Island Gun Club assembled yesterday, at Dexter's Long Island Shooting Ground. maica road, to decide who should be the holder of the club cup for the ensuing month, which, under the rules, has to be shot for every thirty days. The weather was peculiarly suited to the occasion, and there was a full attendance of members. In addition to the principal event-the shooting for the cup-there were several sweepstakes shot off, the results of which are given below. . The birds provided for the occasion were tolerably fair, but not over swift, although directly the traps were pelled they invariably at-Sempted to get away. There was a large tempted to get away. There was a large, attendance of enterprising sportsmen, with every description of gun, on the outside of the fence, who anxiously watched every bird and made short work of each one that flew out of bounds. The shooting for the cup was generally very poor, with the exception of that of Messrs. Wingert, Van Buren and Reding, the latter of whom was the victor, killing nine birds out of ten. The rules under which this trophy is shot for provide for seven birds each, 25 yards rise, 80 yards boundary, 114 ounce of shot, H and T traps, with single birds in each. The contestants for the meat part used breech lenders. Operations were commenced part used breech-leaders. Operations were commenced about half-past twelve, and the sport was continued until dusk. PIGEON SHOOTING AT BABYLON.

The limited number of pigeon shooters at Babylon, I., yesterday morning, caused Ira A. Paine to "deare off" the sweepstakes announced to take place on grounds. But one or two of the old faces usually ticed when sport of this kind is promised were to be en, and the conclusion was that "all hands" had one somewhere else to enjoy the day. Two events, however, made up on the spur of the nent, were decided, which afforded some little amusement and perhaps in a measure repaid the few putsiders for the trouble of journeying thither. The first of these was a match, $20 a side, between Captain Sol Saxon and Captain Nat Clock, both old "bay shooters" living near Babylon, and having but few quals when bagging ducks is the word, or, as in the case of the latter, the salling of a yacht is required. The conditions were fifteen birds each, 25 yards rise, lay ounce shot, and English rules to govern. Soloroved himself the better man and won the match, shooting out the "yachtsman" at the twelfth bird. A tweepstake, $5 entrance, five birds each, 25 yards rise, followed, with seven entries. This fell to Mr. 6. F. Jones, and it ended the pigeon shooting at Babylon on Thanksgiving Day.

HE RIFLE IN WESTCHESTER—A GALA DAY AMONG

MARKSMEN AT GLEN DRAKE BANGE. Under the auspices of the American Rifle Association, a series of interesting matches came off yesterday at Glen Drake range, near Pelhamville, Westchester county. As some of the prizes to be shot for were open to all sorts and conditions of marksmen, and as the weather was all that could be desired, the attendance was large, it being estimated that not less than 2,500 persons visited the grounds during the day.

First on the programme was a "Subscription Match," distance 300 yards; any rifle; trigger pull, three pounds; position, standing and firing from the shoulder; entrance fee, $1. One-half of the entrance money to be for the benefit of the association; balance to be divided among the three highest scores; entrances not limited. The firing in this match was at a 200 yards target, each competitor being allowed five test was the "De Peyster Badge Match," open only to members of the National Guard, in uniform. The badge is of gold, appropriately designed and richly chassed. Its value is about $400. This must be won three times before any member can lay claim to it. The weapons used were military rifles, the distance, position, &c., being the same as in the two preceding matches. The competitors had each seven shots at the target. In this match Frederick Backofen took the prize, scoring twenty-live out of a possible thirty-five.

The "old time turkey shoot," proved the opposite to incrative on the part of the projectors. In the first place, it was intended that the head of a live turkey should be exposed as a target, but Mr. Bergh, having received an intimation of the proposed cruelty to birds, placed his veto on that particular feature of the sport. Accordingly it was decided to decapitate the turkeys, and then allow the head and neck of each bird to be operated upon by the marksmen at a distance of 100 yards with regulation muskots. The entrance fee was fifteen cents per shot. Before the receipts had commenced to accumulate the stock of turkeys rapidly decreased, and when a party took two birds out of four shots there was a hearty laugh given by the spectators, which was changed to a roar as Philip Crockspire, after firing six shots, carried off the last four turkeys remaining, and thus put an end to the fun.

THE SCOTCH-AMERICAN ATHLETES. The members of the Scottish-American Athletic Club spent yesterday in a very enjoyable way. Their first annual handicap games were given at Jones' Wood Colosseum, and, judging from the large crowd of interested spectators who were in attendance, the future annuals of the club will be quite an event with our Scotch-American citizens. Although the weather overhead was all that could be desired by the most exacting, and, therefore, made thoroughly enjoyable to the crowd of lookers on, who had ble seats in the amphitheatre, those who took an active part in the exercises of the entertainground. The slight frosts of the day previous had hardened it somewhat, but the sun yesterday ferencon thawed it well out, so that the track used for the walking and running was muddy and slippery. This proved a great disadvantage to the gentlemen who entered for the match of throwing the light hammer and of tossing the caber. They were unable to get a good footbold, and not a few on this account failed to make even a respectable record. It was after eleven o'clock before the games were begun. There were then about record. It was after eleven o'clock before the games were begun. There were then about 200 persons on the grounds, but later in the day the attendance increased considerably, and there must have been over 2,000 speciators near the close when the three mile walk was in progress. There were twelve entries for the light hammer throwing, each competitor having three throws and the right to have his score stand on his best throw. Charles McLetchie, allowed a handicap of 15 feet, threw the hammer 98 ft. 4 in. Robert Williamson, allowed 10 l8 feet, threw it 97 ft. 3 in.

A 100 yards race was run by heats. The first heat was a tie between Alexander Tasker and L. D. Robertson, the latter being allowed a handicap of 12 yards; the second heat by Francis Dykes, Jr., allowed a handicap of 8 yards; the third by John Grassick, given a handicap of 7 yards and the fourth by D. John Knox, Jr., in the running high leap, allowed 6 inches over Addison and Tasker at the "scratch," leaped 5 ft. 3 m., and George Mitchell, Jr., 5 ft. 2 in., be being second and William Farker (scratch) third. Greig was given 10 inches over the "scratch. The half-mile race was won by B. Greig in 2m, 9½s. David F. Knox being second and William Farker (scratch) third. Greig was given 25 yards and Knox 30 yards over the scratch, in "putting the light stone," John Grassick (scratch) was first, he throwing the stone 37 ft. 7 in. Charles McLetchie, given 4 feet beyond the scratch, threw it 37 ft. 6 in., and John McMillan, given 7 inches, threw it 35 ft. 5 in. In vaulting with the poie, John Knox, allowed 2 feet, vaulted 9 ft. 3 in.; Frank Duke scratch, 8 ft. 4 in., and George Taimie, allowed 16 ft. 6 in., vanited 8 ft. 3 in. The quarter-mile race was won by D. F. Knox, who had an allowance of 28 allowed 50 yards; George Tolmie third, allowed 30 | cold out. There was a allowed 30 yards; George Folime third, allowed 30 yards. In toosing the caloer, M. E. More (scratch) tossed it 37 ft. 8 in., and R. Williamson, allowed I ft. 6 in., 35 ft. 8 in. The three mile walk was won by Thomas McKwen (scratch) in 28 minutes; John Low, allowed 2 m. 15 gt. was second, and John Henderson, allowed 1 minute, was third.

The judges were George and Mathew Goldie, D. M. Stern and Mr. Glos. The entertainment did not come to an end till long after dark.

AT LONG ISLAND CITY.

The members of the Arlington Boat Club and a few other muscular men about Long Island City and Greenpoint participated yesterday in a number of running and the boys and their friends turned out in large numbers. The contests came off on a level piece of ground at the east side of the Arlington Club House, near the shore of Newtown Creek, Mr. Harrison B. Moore, President of the Arlington Boat Club, was appointed to direct the amusements and distribute the prizes. As every member who entered for the several competitions was to receive a prize, the list of competitors was large. Walking matches for one and three miles and running one and a half mile stretches were the main features of the sport. The contests commenced soon after ton and were finished at about half-past twelve o'clock P. M. No feat worthy of recording was performed. and the boys and their friends turned out in large num

For the last two or three Saturdays the old Nassau nine have been playing and defeating the strongest picked nines on the Prospect Park Grounds. So the lovers of the game became anxious to see them pitted against the strong Chelsea nine. It finally resulted in a game being arranged for Thanksgiving Day, which has been the talk among the "boys" for the past week. So a much larger crowd than usual was collected on the Park Grounds yesterday afternoon to witness the game.

Park Grounds yesterday afternoon to witness the game. The Chelsea nine failed to put in a full appearance, not more than six of their players being present. After waiting until half-past, three two tens were selected, one from the old Nassan club the other from the field, six of whom were Chelsea men.

The first inning was played loosely on both sides, each making four runs. The rest of the game was very well played, not a run being made on either side until the seventh inning when the field ten made one. In the eighth the Nassau ten scored one and their opponents two. Darkness prevented longer play.

Fine catches were made by Cassidy, Bunce and Burdock. Rogers and Clare led at the bat. Barnes' play behind the bat was excellent.

HAND BALL.

Hand ball is as yet an unacclimated game here. It differs from racket in that the racket is dispensed with and the naked hand substituted. Skilled hand ball players are not numerous, but when four of the kind can be got together to play a match of seven or nine games the entertainment they are capable of furnishing is of the most exciting character. Billiards and base ball are quite insipid beside it. From end to end of the two hours' match played yesterday at McQnade's court, No. 404 Madison street, the interest of the sporting audience present never abated, and at times was thrilled into loud explosions of applause. The sport announced as "a grand hand ball match between the announced as "a grand hand ball match between the hero of Chicago, James Everett, along with Michael Daughney, of Brooklyn, against Bernard and Arthur McQuade, of New York, the best of seven games, for $200 a side and the championship of America."

The first game closed 21 to 18 for Everett and Daughney. The second game brought out the superior coolness and watchfulness of the McQuades, and they won by 21 to 7. In the third game the playing was magnificent on both sides, some surprising strokes having been made. It was also very close, and was won by Everett's side, 21 to 20. The fourth game was also well played, though the score stood 21 to 7 for the McQuades. In the fifth game Everett's right arm began to fail, and he could hardly strike back the length of the room; but his left stood to him, though in vain, for the score counted for the McQuades 21 to 11. In the sixth game Everett and Daughney made a desperate effort to retrieve themselves; but their nimble and hardy antagonists were here, there and everywhere, springing in a flash from one side of the room to the other and oxecuting the most difficult strokes. The score stood for the McQuades 21 to 12, and the match was declared theirs. Messrs. James Dunn and William Ryan acted as judges and Mr. John Dunn as marker.

At Casey's racket and hand ball court, corner of Hoyt and Douglass streets. Brooklyn, vesterday, there was a large attendance. The special occasion was the promised match between Mr. Philip Casey, the United States champion hand ball player, and Mr. Frank Burke, the champion of Philadelphia. The first game of the day was by James Reating, of

New York, and John Miller, of Philadesphia, against Richard Townsend and Martin McDonnell, of Brooklyn, ending with a score of 21 to 17 in favor of Towns end and McDonnell; and a second game in which the end and McDonnoll; and a second game in which the score was 21 to 10 in favor of Keating and Miller. There were also two three-handed games played by Richard Townsend and John Dowd against James Casey, a brother of the champion Philip, who finished the first game with his two opponents with a score of 21 to 16 in his favor. In the second game he scored only a single 1 to the 21 of his opponents. In the third game he was beaten by 21 to 17.

THE MATCH BETWEEN THE CHAMPIONS.

The conditions of this match, which is one of absorbing interest to all who enjoy the game, are that thirteen games are to be played, for $200, the first six at the court over which Mr. Philip Casey is the governor, in Brooklyn, and the remaining seven at the racket and hand ball court in Philadelphia. Mr. Casey had agreed to give Mr. Burke ten points in each game. The toss was won by Mr. Burke, who took his hand and opened the contest with a hard won score of 2, which, with the 10 allowed to him, made him 12 in the game of 21 points. Mr. Casey then took his first hand and after scoring 2 handsomely retired in favor of Mr. Burke, who, however, only remained in iong enough to score a single 1. In the next band Mr. Casey added 8 to his score. Immediately alterward Burke added 4 to his score. Exceedingly sharp play followed, during which Mr. Casey added six well carned aces to his score. The game now stood 16 to 17. Burke then added another to his score and Mr. Casey came in with his old time quiet, sturdy play, and making 5 points closed the game in his favor with the score standing:—Casey, 71; Burke, 18.

The third game was by far the mest spirited of all that were played; the Philadelphian doing his best. The game closed with a score of 21 to 20 in favor of Casey.

Casey.

The fourth game showed marked improvement on the part of Burke, and, with the 10 in his favor to commence with, he got 21, while Casey scored only 13. The fifth game was again in favor of Casey, who played extra strong and finished it with a score of 21 to 16.

The sixth and last game in this State was won by Casey, the score standing:—Casey, 21; Burke, 10.

The remaining games will be played in Philadelphia, on Monday next.

COD FISHING ON THE BANES, Yesterday morning, at the early hour of seven o'clock, a small knot of men were standing on the stone pier at the foot of Whitehall street, and although it was cold and raw enough, yet the group seemed very jubilant, as they were in momentary expectation of the arrival of the steamer Seth Low, which was to take them to the Fishing Banks in search of the bounding codfish. The fishers were all well equipped for their trip, having baskets with lunches, bait and hooks, and from some of the baskets were seen peoping the necks of mysterious looking flasks, that doubt contained liquids to keep the guesd for the occase steam whistle and the Seth Low hove in sight and took on board the group of cod fishers, who speedily sought shelter on the forward part of the boat and commenced to get their bait and tackling joined together. Stoppages had been made at different places on the East and North rivers by Captain Morrell, in charge of the Seth Low, and about seventy or eighty old fishermen were passengers. The sail down the charge of the Seth Low, and about seventy or eighty old fishermen were passengers. The sail down the Bay was beautiful in the extreme as the sun rose to its zenith, and the passage of a steamer in or out or the swift darking through the water of some sea bird such as a loon or wild duck, was all that occurred to diversify the stillness of the glorious morning. After a two hours' sail the Seth Low, with Mr. Fonter at the helm, reached Long Branch, and was soon placed at anchor on the Seven Fathoms Bank. A small boy, who fills the position of a fishing cup bearer and furnishes lager and bologna sausages, sandwiches and hot coffee, to the hungry and thirsty sports, was the first to had up a fish, and such a fish as it was raised a shout which rent the air above. The first capture was what is known as a sea robin, or sea scorpion, a nasty looking winged fish, weighing about half a pound. Then came a large number of scorpion fishes, one after the other, and about this time the chowder was made and put to boil over a slow fire, to give the boys an opportunity to smell something good while they were working for the finny tribes. Just about this juncture a shout was raised that a monster had been taken from the deep, and Poter Moyers, of Greenpoint, who loves a hook and line better than even a Thamkariying dinner, was discovered struggling with his line. He had hooked a skate, a most uncough looking animal of about forty pounds weight. With his huge mouth wide apart, he looked like the pictured effigy of some old bishop on a tombstone. There were eight or ten of these skates caught during the day's sport, all of a very large size, and a number of large conger cels. The deck was covered literally with scorpton fish so that they had to be swept overboard afterward, and a large number of fine black fish were also taken. The cod fishing was scoellent. Not a few were caught weighing as much as ten or twelve pounds each. The sport was good, and the party returned to the Battery before six o'clock, very well satisfied with th

THE TROUBLE AT PRINCETON COL-LEGE.

PARTICULARS OF THE DISMISSAL OF THE STU-DENTS-AN APPEAL BY THE PARENTS TO THE TRUSTEES—THE ATTEMPT TO SUPPRESS SECRET

PRINCETON, Nov. 25, 1875. The events of the past few days at this famous seat of learning have created considerable comment and dis-cussion, and the intense feeling among the students in regard to the extreme measures taken by the Faculty, which at one time came near resulting in a general outbreak, although now completely allayed, is still inwardly fostered by the dissatisfied students. In all twenty-two have been dismissed, "not expelled," eighteen of whom belonged to the Senior class. The Faculty has not the power to expel any one, only to suspend, the Board of Trustees only being intrusted with this responsibility. If a student was expelled he could not apply for admission to any other college, whereas if he was only dismissed he other college, whereas if he was only dismissed he could exercise this privilege. There were 109 students altogether in the Senior class before this difficulty arose. That the existence of several secret societies in the college for some time past was known by Dr. McCosh and others of the Faculty is not disputed. Several of the members of these secret confraternities even wore pins emblematic of the orders in public. Dr. McCosh, as President of the institution, was puzzled how to act; he stood between two fires and hestitated as to which one he would run into. On the one side were the college laws, which he was in duty bound to uphold; on the other were the wealthy and influential parents of the implicated students, whose friendship the genial hearted Doctor would lose were he to enforce the laws. A few days ago the Doctor went to Cincinnati, Ohio. White away the next gentleman in authority, Professor Lyman H. Atwater, found a golden opportunity in the absence of the Doctor to bring about the climax between the Faculty and the students of the secret orders. Dr. Atwater administers the "pledge" to all new comers, and this pledge enjoins them from joining or becoming members of any secret society. Having a list of the names of the ill-fated twenty-two he summoned them to appear and asked them to renounce the secret orders. A few protested their innocence, but the major portion acknowledged their guit, at the same time stubbornly refusing to comply with the demands of the Professor. He then furnished them all with their "walking papers." Nearly all of the dismissed students have gone home, only a few remaining behind. The Faculty say they have now done their duty in the premises, and it remains for the Board of Trustees to take final action, Most of the students reside in New York. Some of their parents have already communicated with the trustees in reference to the matter, and a meeting of this body will soon be convened for the purpose of adjusting the difficulty. could exercise this privilege. TAMMANY'S FORFEITURE.

[From the Evening Post of Nov. 24.] The fourth and last of the series of sketches of Tammany Hall, which we publish to-day, contains the original act of incorporation of the society, passed April 9, 1805, and the act amendatory of the same, passed April 23, 1867. These laws define clearly the objects of the society and enable us to determine very easily whether it has departed from its legitimate purpose.

The preamble of the act of 1805 recites that the incorporators have formed an association "for the purpose of affording relief to the indigent and distressed members of the said association" and have asked to be incorporated "for the purposes aforesaid." There is no mistaking this plain corporate description.

value of $50,000, and these are all the laws relating to Tammany.

Not only the historical sketches which we have published, but the familiar, every day history of the city, shows that the original purpose of the society has been wholly neglected, and, instead of it, a purpose entirely foreign to the objects of the charter has been pursued. A more perfect perversion could not be conceived. If the Union Ferry Company, whose business it is to run boats between this city and Brocklyn, should undertake to build and work a railroad to San Francisco; or if an insurance company should direct its attention solely to the maintenance of an inebriate asylum; or if the directors of a bank should attempt theatrical management—in none of these cases would the departure from a legalizate purpose be wider than it is in the case of the charitable society of Tammany, which is now and for years has been nothing but a secret association of political managers. Tammany has forfeited its charter, if such a forfeiture is ever possible, and the Legislature should wipe the incorporating acts from the statute book.

THE HERALD AND THE CUBAN CAUSE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD :-

Allow me, as chairman of the Society Independencia de Cuba, to address you, soliciting the insertion in your valuable paper of the following lines:-

Valuable paper of the following lines:—

In the session held by this society on the evening of the 21st inst. it was not sustained, as you have been made to understand and you published in your number of the 22d inst., that the Heralo was not friendly to the Cuban cause. It was only a motion made by a member to protest against the idea, asserted in one of your former articles, that the island of Cuba should fall ripe into the government of the United States. All Cubans are very thankful for your efforts and those of your staff in favor of the Cuban cause, thus feeling truly ediged forever.

Aflow me also to correct the error in to-day's Heralo, stating that the Vice President of Cuba, F. Y. Aguilera, was on board of the Uruguay. He was not with the expedition, as your reporter deducts from his interview with Colonel Lopez Gueralta.

I am truly yours, with the highest consideration, New York, Nov. 24, 1875.

ST. CECILIA'S DAY.

Next Sunday, November 28, will be the anniversary of St Cecilia, the patroness of music and inventor of the organ. Preparations have been made in this city to celebrate the event in an appropriate manner. At St. Cecilia's church, corner of 105th street and Second St. Cecilia's church, corner of 105th street and Second avenue, of which Rev. Dr. Hugh Flattery is pastor, gome interesting ceremonies are announced to take place. A new picture of St. Cecilia, being a copy of Rapinel's masterpiece, just received from Rome for this church, will be unveiled upon the occasion. A solemn high mass takes place at half-past ten o'clock, when a panegyric on the Saint will be delivered. In the evening a musical vespers will be given with full chorus and orchestra. A lecture on "Music and Religion" will be delivered by the Rev. Dr. Duffy. Several musical artists of prominence have been also engaged for the occasion.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

A Holiday on the Stock Exchange-The Business Outlook-The Proposition to Reduce the Rate of Brokers' Commissions.

* THURSDAY, Nov. 25, 1875. A holiday is not always a "holy day," taken in its dictionary significance of "a day of rest from ordinary labor," and it is questionable whether an out-and-out condition of nothing to do is not to most people quite as irksome as too much of its opposite. It will be conceded, however, that there is positive relaxation in getting rid, even for a day, of the steady grind at one single employment, and of supplementing it with some other work that by contrast seems almost pleasure. But labor physics pain, and most people have to take the medicine whether they like it or not. Perhaps the millennium will develop some homocopathic treatment less heroic and more agreeable to the sons of toil; when, too, the maximum of bread can be gained at a minimum of perspiration.

A close holiday in the street necessarily curtails the money article of a daily newspaper, and we propose today to make Stock Exchange men and things a subject of discussion in lieu of figures.

Formerly the courtesy of admission to the floor of the board was extended to the financial writers of the public journals, but the council of forty have "improved" this privilege away, as they have improved away the business of the members. So we must mount to the visitors' gallery to produre a view—a bird's-eye riew-(such as is alluded to in matrimonial advertise ments), without even the certainty that distance will make it enchanting.

Writers on this topic are fond of describing the scene as resembling a "bull ring" or a "bear garden," but as ninety men out of a hundred have seen neither one nor the other, some doubts may be expressed as to the truthfulness of the picture. Bears and bulls there are in numbers, and on a declining market brokers will observe to each other that "there is a fine crop of young grizzlies springing up." The expression is bucolic, so the reference to a garden may be correct after all. In the financial zodiac Mr. Gould is at present Taurus princeps, the longest horned, sleekest coated and strongest framed bull of the herd.

He lowers his head, makes a charge at a stock and tosses up prices in the air with all the ease that marks his Andalusian brother in a Spanish arena. Be the securities really secure, or be they as light as autumn leaves, up they must fly at the flourish of his horns,

But the bull in the arena cannot always keep on the rampage. It is good fun scattering the chalos and prodding the broken down horses, but the matador stands ready, and sooner or later the sharp steel reaches his

Does Mr. Gould ever see the matador, we wonder, standing half concealed with the red flag marked "Ruin" in one hand and the sharp sword of "Panic" in the other?

But Taurus is gifted with the power of transmigration. To-morrow he may be Ursa Major; then stocks, which he tossed up as a bull, he will claw down as a bear; and the speculator who has been trying to follow in his track will be suddenly turned upon and rended.

When such a power as this controls the stock market-when black is made to appear white and white black, when prices are advanced or lowered without rhyme or reason, when the whole business is managed under the influence of chicanery and fraud-is it any wonder that speculators are frightened out of the market and even investors hold their securities with fear and trembling?

The real legitimate speculation of former days which was based upon judgment, foresight and a knowledge of values, no longer exists. Of what avail is it, the knowledge that such and such an institution, being well managed, its stock should go up, or, badly managed, that its price should go down. The unwary operator who should act upon such impressions in these days would find himself in a lamentable plight indeed. Mr. Gould comes in with his prop and his peas, and our prudent, well informed speculator cannot for the life of him "tell under which thimble the little joker

The proposition is pending to lower the rate of commissions, so as to give investors a fairer chance and induce the quick, sharp turns that involve small loss or profit and reduce the magnitude of the risk. The plan is favorably discussed and a paper is now in circulation for signatures, after which the question will be formaily decided by the Stock Exchange. We are assured that the change will be welcome to a very large class of operators, especially those who deal in lots of 100 and 200 shares, and the belief is freely expressed among brokers that their business will show a large increase as soon as the law is thus amended. THE COURTS.

WASHINGTON PLACE POLICE COURT. Before Judge Morgan.

FIFTEENTH WARD PROSTITUTION. There were but a small number of prisoners brought up before this Court yesterday and the most of those arraigned had been arrested for intoxication or disorderly conduct. Sergeant Allen of the Fifteenth precinct charged two women named Louisa Bernheim and Lillie Adams with soliciting men, and officer Carr of the Fifteenth precinct had arrested six others early yesterday morning on the same charge. Officer Carr's prisoners were fined $10 each. Judge Morgan investagated the case of the two women mentioned and concluded to hold them on a charge of vagrancy, and they were accordingly committed to Blackwell's Island for six months. While the examination was going on a man, well known in the Fifteenth ward, called Gartbaldt, stood at the door of the court room. Garibaldt is reputed to be the proprietor of several disorderly houses in West Third and Houston streets, and always makes his appearance when any of his employes are arrested. Judge Morgan saw this man making signs to the prisoners, and he at once instructed the sergeant to keep him out of the court room in future unless he could show that he had legitimate business. The Judge saying in conclusion, "I am tired of being interrupted in the street by this man and others like him, whe want this or that prostitute discharged, and I intend, as far as I am able, to put a stop to this disgusting business." cluded to hold them on a charge of vagrancy, and

A BURGLAR TRACKED.

Superintendent Campbell set two detectives of the Brooklyn Central Office Squad to trace the place of habitation of John DeGroff, a burgiar, who was arrested, aster a struggle, on the premises of W. F. Brainard, No. 216 Division avenue, on Monday last. The only clew the police had to the place of abode of the prisoner, who refused to tell where he had been stopping, was a room key to which was attached a tag marked "80." The detectives visited every hotel in marked "50." The detectives visited every hotel in New York, and finally found that a key for room No. 80 had been taken from the New England Hotel, in the Bowery. They also ascertained that a man who had registered his name as Robert Powell had been stopping at that house for three months, but that he had not been seen since the arrest of Decirof. Yesterday a young lady went down to the jail to see the prisoner, and if possible to identify him as a man whom she had seen coming out of the house of Mrs. Berry, No. 223 Wyckoff street, with a basket of stolen property, a week ago. The fellow hung down his head and the lady was mable to identify him.

ACCIDENT AT SEA.

On the 13th inst., during the passage of the steamship Nevereira from Havre, the steamer shipped a heavy sea, which came over the rail about amidships, and carried David Martin, a seaman, against the mainmast, breaking his leg. On the arrival of the steamer at this port yearerday Martin was conveyed to the Sallors' Hespital,
